

Older Women: Inequality at the Intersection of Age and Gender

Supporting the well-being of all older women across the world demands more and better data.

Many women are confronted with economic insecurity in old age.

26.3% of working-age women worldwide are covered under a pension scheme, compared to 38.7% of men.¹

In lower-middle income countries, only 8.1% of working-age women are covered under a pension scheme, compared to 20.8% of men.¹

As women age, their social roles also evolve.

Women do an average of 2.5 times the amount of unpaid care and domestic work as men do globally.³

More than half of older women aged 60 and over reported increased time spent on unpaid care and domestic work during the COVID-19 pandemic.⁴

The intersecting discriminations that women experience in their lifetimes have a cumulative impact in old age that make their situation more vulnerable in a crisis.

41% of women in the US aged 40-65 have lost job-based income since the beginning of 2020.²

14% of women in the US aged 40-65 have lost their jobs.²

The invisibility of abuse and violence against older women makes their situation more vulnerable.

34% of women 60-plus reported experiencing violence or knowing someone who has since the beginning of the pandemic.⁵

63% of women 60-plus think that domestic violence has increased, while 55% think that sexual harassment has worsened.⁵

The pandemic adversely impacted older women's income and ability to work.

61% of women aged 60-plus reported having lost income as a result of the pandemic.⁴

54% of older women aged 60-plus reported a reduction in paid working hours, compared to 38% of men.⁴
